Notes

- Your BMI is 26.8. On the WHO international scale that is overweight; on the Asian-Indian scale used by the ICMR — where overweight begins at 23 rather than 25 — you are in the obese range. We plan against the Asian-Indian scale.
- At rest your body burns about 1818 kcal a day. With your activity level that comes to roughly 2818 kcal. Your target for fat loss is 2250 kcal a day, split as 170g protein, 251g carbs and 63g fat.
- At this intake you should lose roughly 0.52 kg a week. That is a straight-line estimate — as your weight changes your body burns less, so expect the rate to slow. Recalculate every four weeks.
- A body weight of 69.7 kg would put you mid-healthy-range for your height, about 15.3 kg from where you are now. Allowing for real-world adherence, that is roughly 35 weeks.
- Meat and fish appear only on Wednesday and Sunday — 2 of the 7 days. Every other day is built from vegetarian food.
- Drink about 3.5 litres of water a day, spread through the day rather than all at once.
